School Notes

The High School extends hearty welcome to Miss Alice Leland, a new Grade IX student. We hope that she will find many friends among those now attending, and that she will make her stay a happy one.

All the rooms of school are in a buzz as the eager students once more prepare to contest their handiwork with that of others in the Annual School Fair. The teachers look forward to the time when School Fair will again be a thing of past. Recreases find those entering in the domestic part of the fair, eagerly practicing under the harassed eye of the teacher. Wherever the piano is played, on every group of students rehearsing their vocal parts, and on every hand the strain of "Sweet Lass of Richmond Hill," fill the air.

Friday is going to be a welcome and exciting holiday, due to the School Fair. It is to be hoped that it does not rain. Saturday will also be an exciting day, and many with sad or gay hearts will be viewing their exhibits.

On Friday the High School held its election of officers for the Literary Society. Jean MacLeod acted as chairman and the following staff of officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

Pres.—Boynston Christenson.
Vice-Pres.—Floyd Cary.
Sec.—Treas.—Marjorie Leonard.
Editors—Beth Ellis and Arthur Saunders.

Executive—Ruth Brubaker, Audrey Ward and Margaret Richards.

Grades VII and VIII reorganized their Literary Society last Friday for the coming year. After much deliberation and competition Larry Terhune was elected as President of the room. Larry intends to make this year a very successful one. To assist him the room elected Clara Service as Secretary. Clara has proved to be a good worker, and the Society will benefit greatly with her as officer. To fill the position of Editor, Herman Leith was the favored one and he claims to reveal all "the latest and hottest in the copy."

Hazel Taylor and Mildred Irwin are the program leaders and both aim to present programs of high merit.

Farm Facilities

A recent report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics based on data obtained in the 1901 census contains information in the matter of farm facilities and conveniences which will probably not receive as much publicity as other information obtained by the enumerators but which, nevertheless, is of considerable significance to persons interested in Canadian agriculture. The report summarizes the number of automobiles, trucks, tractors, threshing machines and other important machines possessed by farmers together with a record of farm facilities or conveniences found in the homes.

From it we learn that there were 321,306 automobiles on the 827,923 farms in Canada; about eighteen thousand farms more than one car. There were 48,402 trucks, 105,659 tractors, 75,500 threshing machines and 8,925 combines. Electric motors numbering 17,626 were found on 14,538 farms.

In the matter of home conveniences it was found that the telephone was the most popular of those recorded; one farm in 3-11 has a telephone as against one farm in each 6.8 having a radio. Approximately one farm in ten has either electric or gas lighting while one in 8.61 has water piped to the kitchen and one out of every 20.17 has water piped to the bathroom.

The same report also contained information on the kind of roads on which farms are located and the distance such farms are from their market towns. Over forty-three thousand farms are located on hard surface roads while 254,153 have access to gravelled highways. Slightly more than one third of all farms are located on improved dirt roads. In the matter of distance to market 28.84 per cent are situated less than 5 miles from town 25.54 per cent between 5 and 10 miles 15.29 per cent between 10 and 15 miles 11.83 per cent between 15 and 25 miles 12.24 per cent over 25 miles; the total net reporting is 2.28 per cent.

Suffered A Severe Attack Of Dysentery

Mr. P. L. D. Moulard, Vernon, B.C., writes: "Last summer I suffered from a severe attack of dysentery. I tried nearly everything on the market, without getting any relief, until a friend told me to use Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, which I did, and I got immediate relief. Now I am making it a rule to always keep a bottle of it in my medicine chest."

"Wild Strawberry is a sure relief for dysentery, colic and diarrhoea, but I always see I get the genuine 'Dr. Fowler's.'"

Coalition Governments.

The question of coalition, or union, governments has been brought very forcibly to the attention of the people throughout the Western provinces of Canada within recent months. There is undoubtedly a very considerable body of public opinion which favors the recognition of governments at the present time upon a non-party basis.—that is, the formation of cabinets of ministers inclusive of representatives of all existing political parties, with the strongest men chosen from each to constitute the Government.

But the average elector has but a hazy idea as to how this can be brought about. Many people entertain the view that all present parties are equally responsible if such coalitions are not effected. If an official offer of coalition is made by the head of the Government in office, and it is rejected by the other party, or parties, then, of course, the latter must accept full responsibility for their decision. There is, however, only one person in each Province who can take the initial step leading to coalition. That is the Prime Minister.

Under the British system of parliamentary government the King, or his representative, invites the leader of the party having a majority in the House of Commons, or Legislature, as the case may be, to form a Government. He becomes Prime Minister. It is then his sole prerogative to select his own ministers. He may consult as many people as he chooses, but he, and he alone, names his ministers. Nobody else has any rights in the matter, except, of course, that such ministers must be approved by the people themselves by election to the Legislature. Having chosen his ministers, the Prime Minister alone can demand their resignation from the Government.

It was Premier Ramsey MacDonald who proposed the formation of a National Government in Great Britain; it was Premier Sir Robert Borden who proposed Union Government in Canada during the war in 1917; it was Premier Bracken who proposed coalition in Manitoba this year; it is Premier Tomin who recently proposed coalition in British Columbia. Nobody but the Prime Minister has any right to do so. For a leader of an opposition party to propose coalition would be to infringe on the prerogatives of the Prime Minister.

Once a Prime Minister does propose coalition to the leaders of other parties, then a large measure of the responsibility for the realization of such a form of administration is shifted on to their shoulders, and it becomes a joint responsibility of all to so compromise their differences as to make a union of their forces effective.

Coalitions in the past, both in Canada and elsewhere throughout the Empire, have been brought about in times of emergency in order to carry through certain policies deemed by all in the interests of the country but which would be extremely difficult, if not impossible, for a government representative of a section of the population in British Columbia. Nobody—to do by itself. Therefore, when coalitions are formed the exact nature of the emergency to be met, and the policies by which it is to be met, must of necessity be clearly stated, and it is on the basis thus set out that coalition takes place. This was true in the case of the present National Government in Great Britain, and also when Union Government was formed in Canada to win the war and enforce conscription.

Much of the opinion in favor of coalitions today is founded in the idea that party politics and party governments are a mistake; that the whole citizenship should be united in one party and one Government; in a word that Provincial Governments at least should be in the nature of a municipal council, or board of directors of a company. Whether such an ideal is practical is another question. There are divergent groups in many company directorates, controlling majority and a dissident minority. The same is true in municipal councils, although the members may not be definitely classified under any group name or as Government or Opposition. But the parties or groups exist just the same.

In fact when any two persons join to oppose to bring about any given result a party is formed, and the same is true when two persons unite to oppose any given policy or line of action. In fact, coalitions become necessary when, because of a multiplicity of parties, no one party can command a majority and thus form a Government. Coalitions, therefore, are not the solution of the party system, and it would appear that there will continue to be parties just so long as everybody does not think, see and act alike on public questions.

Finally, a coalition government is not created through a joining of forces by a few individuals, but by the union of parties. Only by a merger of parties for a given purpose can the required strength be given to a coalition. One or two individuals might enter a Government to add strength to that Government, but it would not be a coalition. Parties must unite to bring about a coalition.

Old Orders Still Used

Some of the standing orders still in force in the House of Commons are over two centuries old. An old Norman French phrase is still in use in certain instances, notably "Le Roy le veult" (The King wishes it) in giving the Royal assent to a Bill.

One Well-Managed City

Louisville, Kentucky, Took Simple Way of Effecting Economy

Louisville, Kentucky, will face its new fiscal year, September 1, with a cash surplus of more than $400,000, the majority of its employees will be on a full salary basis and another reduction in taxes is promised.

Cheques are being written for $140,000 to pay back a 10 per cent. salary cut which went into effect on January 1. At the same time the tax rate has dropped from 23.4 mills to 22.3 and assessment values have been cut 7 per cent.

The explanation is simple. In the closing days of 1931 Mayor Harrison, of Louisville, announced a 10 per cent. salary cut for civic employees, and at the same time promised them that should they effect sufficient economies despite the reduction in the tax rate and assessment, they would be given the back pay.

The effect was instantaneous. Economies were effected in every department. The savings came from positive acts of the employees, such as curtailing gasoline supply, care in driving trucks and other vehicles, substituting of materials—in short, from their vigilance.

Even the taxpayers showed an improved tone. On July 23, 89 per cent. of the taxes had been paid, leaving only $587,046 unpaid of the total $8,050,945 receivable as of January 1, 1932.—Winnipeg Tribune.

HAS LOST FAT FOR THREE YEARS

68 lbs. Gone Altogether

A woman writes: "I have been taking Kruschen Salts every morning in hot water and have lost 68 lbs. of fat. My weight before taking them was 196 lbs., and it is now 128 lbs. Compare the difference—I am marvellous. My mother and sister are also taking Kruschen Salts. My friends, and think they are wonderful. I regard this as it is not a diet to do a little bit of dieting; in my case I have never denied myself anything since I started taking Kruschen Salts. I walk every day, and do not eat many pastries and sugar. I don't think I shall ever be grateful enough to Kruschen Salts for the great help they have been to me, and shall never stop taking them, or recommend them to anybody I think need them."—(Miss) K. T.

Taken every morning, Kruschen effects a perfectly natural clearance of undigested food substances and all excessive wastes made during the day. This wastage is regularly expelled. Nature will eventually force it out of the way in the form of watery fat.

Wonders Have Vanished

Look, London, Scotland, where Kaye Don made his world speed-record, has lost wonders which attracted tourists. Its floating island has disappeared, and scientists have explained that its "waves without wind" are merely the result of natural swell, and that the "fish without fins" are really vipers which travel from one island to another by swimming.

Madame Lacroix's delicious CHOCOLATE LAYER CAKE

1 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup milk
2 1/2 cups pastry flour (2 cups and 1/2)
1/2 cup cocoa
3 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
Cream butter and sugar, a little at a time, beating until light, add beaten yolks and flavoring; add flour, sifted with salt and baking powder, alternately with milk. Bake in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in 3 greased layer cake pans in moderate oven at 375° F. about 30 minutes. Recipe for Chocolate Fudge and Filling is in the Magic Cook Book.

Why Magic Baking Powder is used exclusively at this Montreal School of Domestic Science

"We teach our students only the 'scientific' methods," says Madame R. Lacroix, Assistant Director of the Provincial School of Domestic Science, Montreal. "That's why I always use and recommend Magic Baking Powder, its high leavening quality is always uniform. You get the same satisfactory results every time you use it."

And Magic Baking Powder is the unquestioned choice in the majority of cooking schools throughout the Dominion. Cookery teachers—and housewives, too—prefer Magic because of its consistently better results.

Chemists Make Discovery

Find Nitrogen Fertilizers Are Good For Grazing Lands

London chemists make a startling discovery. It is now possible to graze seven cows where four grazed before. Thus England, with land cut, might almost double its beef herds, increase home-grown food from 38 to 45 per cent., add 10,000,000 sheep. In 10 years Britain might even become self-sufficient in meat, butter, cheese and eggs. The open season to this agricultural wonder world is—nitrogen fertilizers. As Dean Swift might have said: "Whoever makes two blades of grass to grow where but one grew before deserves well of mankind—though his fairy dust be fertilizer."—Christian Science Monitor.

Important Information is Obtained By California Scientist in Northern Manitoba Flight

Scrapping the skies of northern Manitoba with his super-power aeroplane, flying Officer R. E. Gordon, completed the second of two flights in the interests of science. He soared to a height of 20,000 feet while the sensitive electronic probes brought north by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, world-famed physicist, recorded important information in connection with the nature of the cosmic ray.

Three cameras reeled made by a automatic camera during the flight contain what Dr. Millikan hopes is the answer to one of the greatest riddles of modern science, the effect, if any, of the earth's magnetic forces on the cosmic ray. While the plane hummed about at high levels the needles of the super-sensitive electronic cameras invented by Dr. Millikan for the purpose, were indicating the play of the electrical forces which, although unseen, are believed to play a great part in the life of the universe. At the same time the cameras recorded the movements of the needles.

Dr. Millikan will take his valuable films back to his laboratory at the California Institute of Technology and develop them. The record will be checked with other records made at other points and the scientist will then draw his conclusions and begin preparations for the end of the year.

Story Not Generally Known

How Bruce' Of Scotland Rusted English Hero By Strategy

The Earl of Mar has presented to the Scottish nation the Bruce's stone. Everybody has heard the legend of Bruce and the spider. Less familiar, though, is the story of the strategem to which Bruce resorted, as he did on so many occasions with equal success, when he was a fugitive in the Gallo-way Highlands. His little band of followers gathered all the horses, wild and tame, all the goats, all the four-footed creatures upon which they could lay their hands. The noise of this large body and the waving of the goats' horns made the English aggressive that there must be a large force with Bruce. Accordingly they remained in their camp, and at daybreak Bruce attacked them with such fury that they were utterly routed. Moss Raploch, where the Stone is set up, and under which Bruce rested after he had put the enemy to flight, was recently sold by the Earl of Mar to the Galloway Power Company, but the Earl reserved from the sale the Stone itself, together with a mass of access from the main road.

Another Mid Winter

Weather Bureau Expert Makes Favorable Prediction

Unless there is an unprecedented sharp drop in temperature, the weather men believe another moderate winter is in store.

That is the normal expectancy, Joseph M. Kincer, chief of the agricultural meteorology division of the weather bureau at Washington states, as a result of the upward swing in the thermometer beginning in 1926.

Records show that the weather moves in currents of a few cold years and a few warm years, Kincer said. In the past, a change from one cycle to another has come gradually and, while not forecasting definitely a mild winter, he said that indications pointed that way since there is no evidence yet that a change to abnormal temperatures has begun.

England is minkling gradually to sea level at the rate of nine inches every one hundred years, Captain T. E. Longford, ordnance survey expert, told the British Association of Scientists.

Problem Becoming Critical

Number Of Transient Unemployed Refuse Work When Offered

A local farmer interviewed seven transients on the streets of Llanora on a recent Saturday, offering harvest work at the going wage of $1.50 and board. Not one of them would accept a job at this wage. But, in company with others of their ilk, these men have been soliciting food and clothing from Hanna homes.

The whole problem of handling transient unemployed is approaching a critical state. No doubt there are thousands of these unfortunate who are willing to work but who cannot secure employment. But, in the light of recent experience, it is increasingly evident that there are other thousands roaming the country who are not anxious to work, even when reasonable wages, with board and lodging, are offered.

It cannot be long before house-holders will be compelled to cease feeding the armies of transient unemployed. The burden, in this respect, is becoming heavier from day to day. One regrets turning away any human being who asks for food. But the responsibility must be shouldered by the country as a whole, not by the generosity of individuals.

And with a noticeable increase in the number of men who are idle, it is apparent that crisis in the unemployment problem is fast approaching.—Hanna, Alberta, Herald.

Mystery Of Mars

Possibility That Sister Planet May Be Inhabited

If the planet of Mars is inhabited, the natives must be something like the North American Eskimos, the Rev. T. R. Phillips, noted British astronomer, believes.

Dr. Phillips, who agrees with Professor William H. Pickering, that there can be intelligent inhabitants on Mars, said in an interview between meetings of the International Astronomical Congress, that if such inhabitants exist, they must be able to endure tremendous changes in temperature within a single day.

During the day, he said, the temperature on Mars is well above the freezing mark, but when night comes it drops far below zero. Only persons of amazing physical stamina could exist, he said, if the change he said.

"Information now available suggests that life of some kind exists on Mars, but it would necessarily be differently constituted from life on the earth," Dr. Phillips said. "The air is much thinner, and because of the shifting temperature the native would have to be a hardy race."

Want Trapping Privileges

Great Bear Lake Prospectors Ask For Change In Game Act

Claiming that the Federal Government neglects the pressing needs of the Territories Game Act seems to exclude whites from the territories prospectors from Great Bear Lake.

The petitioners holding hunting licenses are permitted to trap fur-bearing animals in the winter, the catch to be limited to a specified number of pelts and the concession given only to bona-fide prospectors.

The present law forbids white persons to trap and hunt unless they have been a resident in the territories for four years. The petition charges that this is unfair discrimination and entails great hardships on prospectors, if unable to make a living in the territories during the winter months, they are forced south in the early fall.

Peculiar Method Of Burial

One of the strangest sights in the world is on a mountain top of Luzon, Philippine Islands. Fully clothed and sitting in groups of from ten to twenty-five each, there are hundreds of bodies of Igorots which have been mummified by the hot, dry air—their method of burial. It resembles a vast picnic.

Floating Air Station

German Ship To Be Stationed In Mid-Atlantic To Assist Air Travel

The North German Lloyd Company announced it had designated the liner "Westfalen" as a floating air station in mid-Atlantic to facilitate the establishment of regular air mail between South America and Europe.

The liner will be equipped as a mother ship for trans-Atlantic mail planes. This will include a landing platform, store of tools and spare parts, radio equipment and weather forecasting paraphernalia.

The liner will be permanently stationed midway between Bahama, British Gambia, or a nearby point on the African Coast, and Fernando Noronha.

The establishment of a floating air station is expected to solve the fuel problem of the long overwater jump. The recent international aviation congress at Rome revealed a triple race among Italy, France and Germany to be the first nation to establish a successful commercial air line to South America.

Third Largest Port

New Westminster Forging To The Front In Shipping Trade

New Westminster, B.C., is the Dominion's third largest seaport in the quantity of freight handled, it was announced recently by the New Westminster Harbor Board. The recent report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa, did not mention the Fraser River port.

With 500,000 tons of cargo handled for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1932, the port is only exceeded by Vancouver and Montreal.

The bureau has announced that Saint John, N.B., was the third largest port with 415,167 tons.

Present prospects indicate the port business for 1932 will exceed 480,000 tons.

Belgium still has a wooden shoe industry, much of the production being shipped to France, Germany and the Netherlands.

Cabbage and Goitre

Medical Men See Some Connection Between Vegetable and Disease

Cabbage that pillar of the vegetable kingdom that brings vitamins cheaply to our tables, is under medical suspicion as a cause of goitre.

In his address to the Manitoba Medical Association in convention at Winnipeg, Dr. A. C. Abbott, Winnipeg, cited experiments carried out at Johns Hopkins' University which showed winter cabbage caused goitre in rabbits in the short space of three weeks. He told of a survey he has recently completed among Winnipeg school children in which his findings bore out this theory.

Dr. Abbott found it significant that children of British extraction whose diet was varied, showed less than 12 per cent affected thyroid glands while between 30 and 40 per cent of children whose people came from Europe had enlarged thyroids. He found central Europeans ate a tremendous amount of cabbage, in comparison with British people.

WITH THE TWILIGHT

Will you forget, at nightfall,
The lances of mellow light
That rest upon the river,
The tireless gulls in flight?
The river, slowly seeping
Its long-dead sea;
We'll forget, at twilight,
The prairie wind, and me?
You may forget, at nightfall,
Those scenes where once we moved,
And all the fading pageant
Of beauty that we loved;
But ever with the twilight
And those lost joys we knew
I shall come creeping back, dear,
I shall be near to you!

Sixty Is Fairly Fast

A man who says he usually travels in the open country at 55 to 60 miles an hour writes to The Star that "speed maniacs" pass him going 70 to 75 miles an hour. No doubt these complain that they are sometimes passed by reckless persons driving 80 to 85 miles per hour. But isn't 60 miles an hour fairly fast in the first place?

Canadian Bacon Exports

Canada's exports of bacon to Great Britain increased from 16,600 tons in July, 1931, to 24,400 tons in July, 1932, putting her in fourth place among nations selling bacon to the United Kingdom.

Children At St. Ives, England, Throw Dice For Bibles

Dice were thrown for Bibles at St. Ives, England, recently. The custom is observed annually, and three Anglican and three Nonconformist children each received a Testament. The custom follows the provisions of the will, dated 1688, of Dr. Robert Wide, and the cost of the Bibles is defrayed by rents from land known as Bible Orchard.

HARDWARE

Arrowwood Alberta

Everybody joins everybody attempts, everybody supports. Then the newest wears off, variety seekers vanish and only a few faithful enthusiasts are left to carry on. One community is not different from another, neither is any organization free from these fluctuations. Taxes—government enforcement—more or less stabilize the work of school boards and councils but whether it is the wheat pool or the athletic club, the church or the board of trade, history repeats itself.

Now if the P.T.A. had done nothing more than bring parents and teachers face to face over their common problem, it would have justified its existence. In most cases a couple of sentences will clear the air and avoid endless irritation. But it has done much more. Lectures, helpful to teachers, parents and pupils have been given, school room and school ground equipment has been purchased, hot food supplied to those who must carry lunches and often food, clothing and school books given individuals who, without the help of the P.T.A. would have had to go without them.

Of course there has always been opposition. And the fact that it is to be expected does not lighten the load when the attack comes. Often the petty arguments used against its activities are too light for serious consideration. But the fact that inevitably the few are left to carry on is a more vital issue. Yet a look over life discovers the fact that this is the way of all flesh. There is to-day many a thriving Sunday School and lodge which can look back to a day when the faithful few carried on and paid expensively in time and money simply to keep the thing going. We do not justify this state of affairs but would only try to strengthen the arms of those who remain "on the job" and look, with them, to better days ahead.

UNUS SOLUS

Health and School

The child who is starting school for the first time faces what is a rather difficult period for many children. Unless he has been guided properly during his pre-school years the change from the home to the school is not an easy change for him to make.

The child should be told what school is. He must be happy in school and get real pleasure out of his school work if he is to do well in school. The child will be eager to go to school if he finds that it is a place which helps him to do the things which children want to do.

A great deal is written about health habits and it seems that comparatively few parents realize just how much the good health of their children depends upon the establishment of good health habits as part of the child's daily routine. It requires patience to accomplish this and it is to be remembered that scoldings defeat the purpose, the child needs encouragement.

The health habits of a child should include personal cleanliness. A wash bath twice a week, underclothes and stockings changed frequently, teeth brushed at least twice a day—after breakfast and before going to bed—hands washed before every meal. Plenty of sleep, so that the child is properly rested, can be secured only through having a regular bed-time which allows the required hours for sleep before it is time to get up and prepare for school.

Meals should be served at regular hours. After washing his hands the child comes to the table. The child requires a variety of food, and because he is growing and active, he needs a good deal of energy and body-building foods. The selection of proper foods is the duty of the mother. The attitude of the parents towards food will have a great influence on the children. If father will not eat this or that he need not expect the children to do so. They will follow his habits—not his advice or orders. The healthy school child is naturally active and will not need to be urged to play. He will need some supervision, so that he does not overdo the play and forget that there is a regular bedtime. It is important the child get up early enough to wash, and to eat and enjoy their breakfast. Breakfast should be given just as much attention as any other meal. A regular bowel movement daily is a necessary health habit. The child's activities must not be allowed to interfere with toilet habits, which depend more upon the regularity than anything else.

Mr. J. G. Brown

Preached Farewell
Sermons Sunday

On Sunday last, in spite of the very unfavorable weather a large crowd gathered at the United Churches at Milo and Queenstown, when Mr. J. G. Brown, student missionary on the field for the past two summers, preached his farewell sermon.

Speaking from the text "He endured so seeing Him who is invisible, Heb. 11: 27. Mr. Brown stressed the value of the element of durability in the lives of men. Referring to the sustaining influence of a great insight, he pointed out the strengthening power that comes to us from the spiritual vision of our homes and from the Church "But," said the speaker "the man in the text saw more than a 'what', he saw a 'who'. And it is the power that comes from the sight of Him who is invisible that we must have if we are to endure in spite of the pessimism that is sapping society and fills to which all flesh is heir. We must rediscover the reality of the unseen God. He is invisible but He is, and we shall prove it only by life and experience."

At Queenstown on Thursday and Milo on Friday preceding the members of the Congregations held a social evening where they expressed their regret at Mr. Brown's departure and the words spoken and gift presented showed their appreciation of the service rendered on this charge.
